Security Awareness Training
by ThriveDX

Reducing Human Risk

Employees are the most vulnerable aspect of an organization, which is why building employee cyber resilience through powerful security awareness training is essential for the safety of your business.

Security awareness training that combines realistic phishing simulations, awareness training, and real-time reporting is the only way a company can truly get insights into how safe their organization is.

Security Awareness Training

Building resilience through ongoing education and training is the only way to stay vigilant against cyber threats.

Generic training is ineffective as every company is subject to different tech stacks, policies, and regulations.

Creating a human firewall requires relevant and continuous training based on real-world events.
